The Roanoke German Club gave the largest german of the holidays last Wednesday night, beginning at 9 o'clock and lasting until after 1. Hotel Roanoke was beautifully decorated in the Christmas colors of red and green for the occasion. This is the oldest german club in the city, and many of the married couples were present. Supper was served in the dining-room and attractive china bells were given as souvenirs, thus ringing out the old and ringing in the new year. The figures were led by Strother Jones and Miss Misses' Outer Apparel,

Alice Izard. The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. McComb, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Stone and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Poindexter."

The marriage of Miss Ruth Dabney,

The marriage of Miss Ruth Dabney, of Newport News, to Walter R. Pennington, of Pennington Gap, was celebrated at "Ridgeway," the home of Mrs. Rebecca Pennington, at Dryden, on Thursday evening. The Rev. J. B. Craft performed the ceremony, and Miss Ada Pennington, sister of the groom, sang "O Promise Me" just before the entry of the bridal party. The bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was rendered by Miss Carrie Renny, of Richmond, accompanied on the violin by Miss Virginia Beverly. "O Believe Me, if All Those Endearing Young Charms," was played by Miss Renny very softly during the service.

The bride's gown was of white brocaded charmeuse trimmed in duchess lace and seed pearls, and she carried a

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. Pennington left later in the evening for a Southern wedding trip. Guests from a distance included Judge and Mrs. E. W. Pennington, their daughters, Misses Ada, Mary and Jeanette Pennington, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Beverly and their son, William Beverly, Mrs. S. Polly, Misses Perdie Orr, Ruby Litton, Sarah Cochran, Messrs. R. G. Craft, Sarah Cochran, Messrs. R. G. Craft, W. H. Polly and Dr. C. C. Pearce.

Among the Richmond people going South this season are John Foege and Miss Margaret Foege, who left on Tuesday for Baltimore, en route for Jacksonville, Fla. Mr. Foege and Miss Foege will spend three months at Miami, Palm Beach and other winter resorts of interest on the East coast of Florida.

Mrs. A. B. Guigon was chairman of the musicale held at the Woman's Club yesterday afternoon. Miss Bula Ray Shull, of Norfolk, who sang at the club two years ago, and Joseph Whittemore were the soloists, Miss Myrtte Redford being the accompanist. It was a very pleasing event. Miss Shull is a lovely girl with a great deal of personal magnetism and dramatic ability, as well as a charming contralto voice, and Mr. Whittemore is also a musician of no small note and distinction. He has a splendid tenor voice and much charm of manner.

BASIL MANTACHEFF WORLD'S RICHEST MAN

Russians Claim He Has Even More Wealth Than

His chief interests in life are horses, and at the recent sales in England, at Newmarket and elsewhere, he was the largest purchaser, bidding such sums as defied all competition for the horses, the mares and the foals which struck his fancy. He maintains a large racing stud at Tiflis, of near a hundred horses, has another one still larger at Warsaw, a third one at St. Petersburg, and is now engaged in organizing a very fine one in the outskirts of Paris. According to his own admission his one ambition in life is admission, his one ambition in life is to have the finest racing stable in the world, and as he has a thorough knowledge of horseliesh, and has inexhaustible riches at his command, there is no reason why he should not accomplish his gim. Mantacheff is thirty-three years of age, with a nose that is sharp and slightly aquiline; a thin, small mustache, and large eyes, with a certain melancholy in them. He dresses in the most excellent English taste, has nothing horsey in his appearance, has none of the eccentricities which one so often finds in the youthful inheritors of colossal fortunes, and impresses one with a certain quiet earnestness of manner. He has already won the grand prix of the Empress, which is the blue ribbon of the Russian turf, and has horses now entered for the English Derby and for the Paris Grand

Basil Mantacheff is, of course, a member of the Imperial Racing So-ciety of Warsaw, of the Imperial Racing Society of Tsarskoe-Selo, and of the Imperial Moscow Racing Society. Horse racing in Russia dates from the reign of Peter the Great, who by a decree issued on December 10, 1722, authorized the organization of horse races outside the city limits at Mos-cow, and permitted the owners of the competing horses to lay wagers in money.

It was not, however, until the reign of Catherine the Great that horse racing came into actual vogue, largely through the efforts of her favorite, Count Orloff Tchesmensky. He was the first Russian breeder to import English thoroughbreds, in order to improve the native breed of Russian

Being deeply religious, she felt that, although sincerely in love with him, it would, un-der the circumstances, be wrong to be-come his wife. Duke Slegfried not long afterwards became insane, and, after being kept under restraint for some time in the Castle of Biederstein, is now in the private sanatorium of Neu Friedenheim, near Munich.

The Archauchess Maria Annunciata was so distressed, first at having to terminate the engagement, and then by the tragic sequel, that for a time she seemed determined to take the veil. The Emperor would not, however, permit her to become a nun, pointing out to her that it would be contrary to the interest of the dynasty, and that she could accomplish just as much good and even more as abbess of the Convent of the Noble Ladies of the Hradschin, a convent where the vows are merely of a temporary character, and do not impose withdrawal from the world or from social life.
